“ I have many memories of Kelly, but if I had to pick a favorite it would be when Kelly crashed my wedding in 1980. I kept asking people who is that girl. I met Kelly that day and always stayed friends. RIP my friend.

“ I met Kelly several times while visiting my daughter, Valerie Steger. When she told me about Kelly it saddened me as Kelly was so kind and friendly and she was so pleasant to talk to. You could tell the goodness came from her heart.

“ I have so many memories I don't even know where to begin. One of my first memories was spending the weekend with Kelly and her daughter Dana when they lived in Green Lake. I brought over a huge garbage bag of clothes for Dana and I to play dress up in. Kelly thought it was the greatest thing we would dress up and she would take pictures of us with our camera we did that for almost an entire day. I remember Kelly teaching me how to make ramen noodles. I remember taking trips in the car listening to music dancing and singing at the top of our lungs. There were so many moments of laughter we shared comma tears we cried and love that was shown to one another over the past 20 years. I am so very grateful to have spent that time getting to be a special part of Kelly's family. One of the biggest lessons I learned comma was not only how to stick up for myself but also to Value myself and my work as a person. To take pride in what I have to offer others from Friendship and support. Most of all, I learned that family doesn't just mean by Blood. Kelly and I just talked recently a few weeks ago about the desire to get together soon because it had been far too long. We shared a few memories and talked about how much we loved and missed each other. I am grateful to him just recently had that opportunity to share with her just how much she meant to me. My deepest sympathies, love, thoughts and prayers go out to Kelly's family because I know firsthand just how strong their bond was.
